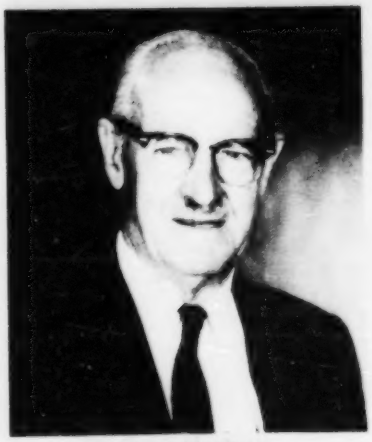
The Board of the Alberta Historical Resources Foundation is made up of nine people, six of whom are appointed by the Government of Alberta and three from the Foundation's membership. In 1981 the Foundation held nine meetings: one in Brooks, five in Calgary, two in Edmonton and one in Lethbridge.

Honorary Chairman's Report



Dr. Grant MacEwan

Public bodies, created to ensure the preservation of historic resources are doing a good job, but they will always need help and the public has an important role to play.

A most useful service comes from citizens who are discerning and objective in their views about important sites. There's no hope of preserving all old structures, hence the public can fulfill a useful part by conducting its own assessments and priorities when funds for the purposes are limited. Many groups are developing specific criteria by which these assessments can be made.

It would be wrong to press for the preservation of locations of marginal historical importance while there are places and items of outstanding importance which are in danger of being lost.

Public organizations must have their own priorities and it will strengthen the hands of those responsible for the general public to exercise enthusiasm at the most appropriate time and exercising restraints when they are necessary for the total best result for Alberta.

Chairman's Report

W. Brian Edwards

It was an extremely challenging and gratifying year for the Board. Much was accomplished but, perhaps, our greatest single achievement was the establishment of the Foundation's Guiding Principles.

After several months of discussion and revision the Board has drawn up a three-page set of guidelines which, I know, will greatly assist it in its focus and direction for years to come.

The Foundation's programming priorities are such that it will both initiate programmes and also act as a catalyst by responding to requests regarding the preservation of architectural resources and the creation of a public awareness of the value of all facets of Alberta's historic resources.

As you can understand these guidelines are deliberately wide-ranging as we, like the public and government, become more and more familiar with our history and the importance it has played in the development of our land.

We, therefore, must remain flexible in our approach so that we can respond and be more effective as and when the need arises.

In 1981 the Board worked diligently and during its nine meetings it considered more than 100 projects and programmes. This demonstrates the importance the foundation has become to many Albertans who in their own way want to preserve, restore and record our heritage for future generations.

I would like to thank everyone who has joined us in the past year as a demonstration of their support for the work of the Foundation and also express my deep appreciation for the work undertaken by board members and staff, past and present. It was a pleasure serving as your chariman and I look forward to another successful and challenging year.

W. Brian Edwards
Chairman

Board tours historic sites

Buildings on the site of the former Medalta Potteries Ltd., Medicine Hat. The buildings and brick kilns, some built as early as 1912, were operating until the late 1950's. Since then the site has been little used, but it is the hope of a group of concerned Albertans to rehabilitate part of the site, which was designated a Provincial Historic Resource in 1976, into a working industry museum and studios for ceramic arts.

As part of its orientation programme for Directors, the Board schedules at least one of its meetings to include a visit to heritage sites and buildings.

On June 1 and 2 the board visited parts of south and southeastern Alberta which included stops at Brooks to view the museum, the research station and the aquaduct. Medicine Hat was next on the itinerary when the directors met with Jim and Lorine Marshall at their Grassroots Studio. Jim Marshall has been commissioned by the Foundation to produce 40 pen and ink drawings of historic sites and buildings.

Next, the Board visited the Mitchell Ranch and Bunkhouse just outside Medicine Hat. The structure is a rare example of an early log ranch house constructed from Cypress Hills' logs. The building was started in 1893 and finished in 1900. It was recently moved from its original site to save it from demolition. The day ended with a visit to the Medalta Potteries Ltd. site and dinner with Medicine Hat heritage supporters.

The following day the Board held its regular meeting at the Sir Alexander Galt Museum in Lethbridge which was followed by a lunch with civic and community leaders. A bus tour of Lethridge's historic sites closed out the two-day tour before the directors returned home.

Executive Director's Report

The Foundation's Executive Director Trudy Cowan applauds the work of the Western Canada Lottery, Alberta Division, which distributed nearly four million dollars among 13 foundations and associations. The Alberta Historical Resources Foundation received $422,500 from the lottery programme, 79 per cent of the Foundation's total income for 1981.

This is my second annual report for the Alberta Historical Resources Foundation and it gives me great pleasure to report that 1981 was an extremely successful year.

Our Board of Directors are to be complimented for the time they devoted to the drafting of the Guiding Principles - an important document which will help guide the Foundation in its development.

As the Foundation becomes more widely known and the importance of heritage preservation is acknowledged, requests for assistance are, naturally, increasing. In 1981 the Foundation distributed slightly more than $360,000 among 25 new and ongoing projects - an increase of $100,000 over 1980.

Our main source of income was a portion of the profits of the Western Canada Lottery, Alberta Division, which contributed more than $440,000, which was 79 per cent of our total income. I'm pleased to see that many members also helped us by contributing a donation to our programme above and beyond the token one dollar we charge for membership - an amount kept deliberately low so that our organization can be available to everyone who is interested in heritage preservation. Donations in 1981 came to $15,000 which was three times the amount contributed in 1980. Our grateful thanks to everyone. Funds donated to assist specific projects added another $15,700 to our ability to preserve Alberta's past.

Membership in the Foundation continues to grow and, as of December 31 we had 1,166 people registered as paid members.

There was an increase in the use of the exhibition gallery by Alberta artists and several hundred visitors enjoyed the work and talent of these people. The Evelyn De Mille Reference Library too, is becoming a popular haunt of members, students and people interested in learning a little more about the history and development of this glorious part of the world. Our thanks especially to Evelyn for her continued support and generous contribution of books to the library. During the year I had the opportunity of visiting with and speaking to different groups and organizations throughout the province. It's an extremely valuable part of my work schedule and I enjoy the occasions immensely. We continued our association with many other heritage groups including the Society for the Preservation of Architectural Resources in Calgary (SPARC) and its Edmonton counterpart SPARE; Heritage Canada Foundation; Historical Society of Alberta; Junior League of Calgary; the Old Strathcona Foundation, Edmonton and many more.

Board members and staff have worked closely with many municipal authorities boards and committees on heritage projects. The voice of the Foundation was heard at historical society meetings, development appeal hearings, service club luncheons and we were seen throughout Alberta in the two television commercials which were produced in 1981.

In March the Foundation held its Biennial meeting at the Fort Calgary Interpretive Centre where we welcomed new board members Nan Morrison of Okotoks, Dr. Clive Padfield of Edmonton and Dr. James Tagg of Lethbridge. They succeeded Evelyn De Mille of Calgary, Elly de Jongh of Edmonton and Dr. Alex Johnston of Lethbridge. The next members' meeting is scheduled for March, 1983 in Edmonton.

I thank the Board for its assistance and guidance; our valuable members for their support and encouragement; the Government of Alberta and especially Minister of Culture Mary J. LeMessurier and the staff of the Historic Sites Service for their interest and invaluable assistance. And last but not least the staff of the Foundation - all three of them for their hard work, support and enthusiasm. My thanks.

Trudy Cowan
Executive Director

Projects

A $50,000 grant to help rebuild an old school severely damaged by fire was one of the projects in which the Foundation became involved in 1981.

The 52 year-old St. Paul School, St. Paul, in northeastern Alberta, was badly damaged in the March 17 fire and the Foundation's grant helped toward the rebuilding of the school's brick and stone facade. The school is also the headquarters of the Franco-Albertain Heritage Project which received a grant of $26,000 toward its programmes of recording the songs, dances, stories, recipes and costumes of Alberta's Francophone people.

In Edmonton the Rossdale Community was given $35,000 to assist with the development of an interpretative concept plan to incorporate Rossdale into Edmonton's Capital City Park. At the opposite end of the province, in Fort Macleod, the Foundation took a $25,000 mortgage to secure the future of the 70 year-old Empress Theatre.

The Trail North Foundation, an Edmonton based organization which is developing the historic trail from Edmonton to Athabasca, received $115,000 of the Foundation's commitment toward its early research and planning activities.

In Medicine Hat the Medalta Project, conceived by Jack Forbes, University of Alberta, Faculty of Extension, moved forward. A grant of $26,000 was given to allow detailed physical recording and structural analysis of the historic portion of the 1912 pottery-making site and to prepare preliminary designs and cost estimates for the development of a museum/workshop/working industry at the site. The Foundation encouraged and supported the establishment of a committee in Medicine Hat to take the project forward.

A children's theatre group called Boite a Popicos (Jack-in-the-Box) was given $9,000 to help it produce a French language play for Alberta schools about the history of the French people in the province. In Calgary, the Foundation assisted the Stephen Avenue Mall Alliance with a $2,000 grant for its public awareness programme and it also contributed $600 toward the Indian Dance Festival during Calgary's Mall Days.

Gallery & Library

During the year the Foundation's exhibition gallery was the venue for a number of shows. All were in keeping with the gallery's objectives of creating a visual awareness of the life and times of Alberta.

In February and March two Calgary artists Betty Macdonald and Frances Wood produced oil, pen and ink and pastel pictures about the petroleum industry and portraits of Alberta's pioneers.

For the months of May and June Lee Christensen displayed watercolour and oil paintings of scenes in her region of Bassano and Brooks.

Four artists combined their talents for a show in July and August which featured sculptures and paintings. Leon Levesque of Pincher Creek, Cornelius Martens of Coaldale and Harry O'Hanlon of High River provided selections of their western theme sculptures and Judith Nickol of Coaldale exhibited some of her watercolour and oil paintings.

"There's No Business Like the Old Business", was the title of a 50-piece black and white photographic exhibition produced by Calgary photographer John Dean. The show ran in October and November and featured pictures about the places and people who worked in east Calgary. The Foundation then assisted John to circulate his photographs throughout Alberta.

In December a special show was organized for the Christmas period - an exhibit of old Alberta toys. The various toys, which were made between 1900 and 1940, were brought together by Calgarians Doug Andrews, Barbara Kwasny and Pat Phillips. An old fashioned tree-trimming party with a group of mentally-handicapped people decorated the gallery for the season. The Evelyn De Mille Reference Library continued to grow, particularly through the generosity of Foundation Director Evelyn De Mille who supplied the library with many of its books. Several hundred volumes of Western Canadian material are available for use by members and in 1981 two sections were expanded - architecture and its preservation and the North West Mounted Police.

Collections

Oral history researcher and interviewer Tom Kirkham continued his extensive programme of interviewing Albertans who have a special knowledge about business and industry and social and political development in the province.

During 1981 his interviews included stories about the High River Times; the photographic collection of the Gushul Family of Blairmore; the automobile parts supply business; the legal and social aspects of enfranchisement of native people; the expansion of commercial corn growing in southern Alberta and the history of the United Farmers of Alberta. The recorded tapes are placed with Glenbow-Alberta Institute Archives, Calgary.

The Foundation continued its financial support of the Petroleum Industry Oral History Project - cooperative venture of Aubrey Kerr, petroleum geologist, the Glenbow Archives, the Petroleum Industry and the Foundation.

Emergency purchase funds of $6,500 went to help the Glenbow-Alberta Institute successfully bid on 11 broadsides (posters) from the Northwest Rebellion in 1885 and bring them to Alberta. A grant of $2,500 was given to assist with the purchase of the Gushul Photographic Collection of pictures taken in the Crowsnest Pass area of southwestern Alberta from 1909 until the 1960's.

The home of William Roper Hull, early entrepreneur and self-labelled "capitalist", built in 1902, was located at the corner of 12th Avenue and 6th Street S.W., Calgary. Below: June 30, 1970.

Publications

For a number of years the Foundation has supported the production of community history books about the people and communities of Alberta - its own reference library has more than 200 titles available.

In 1981 the Foundation continued its support when it offered one-year, interest-free loans to groups working on histories in the following communities: Stettler ($20,000); Alhambra and District ($18,000) Sexsmith and Red Willow (each $10,000); West Lethbridge ($2,500) Loverna, on the Alberta-Saskatchewan border ($500).

As part of its development of guidelines for the future, the Board decided to cease the interest-free loan programme and instead, provide incentives to the publishing industry to take on more Alberta history projects.

During the year the Foundation also assisted other publishing projects. It gave $3,620 in support of the magazine Alberta History, published by the Historical Society of Alberta. A donation of $2,000 also went toward the publishing of a special issue on Western Canadian Architecture in Prairie Forum, the journal published by the Canadian Plains Research Center, University of Regina.

In Calgary the Foundation contributed $2,500 toward the cost of printing the Stephen Avenue Mall Walking Tour pamphlet, published by the City of Calgary. A total of $1,656 was granted to M.W. Associates of Lethbridge to help them print 200 copies of the 1882 - 1900 index of the Lethbridge News and Fort Macleod Gazette.

In January the Foundation coordinated the launching of the book, No Man's Land, an eyewitness account of the exploits of the 50th Battalion Infantry of Calgary during World War One as reported by Signaller Victor W. Wheeler. The 400-page, hardcover book, which was produced jointly with the Alberta-NWT Command of the Royal Canadian Legion, sells for only $10.00 to members.

Another new book which the Foundation supported was the pictorial history, Edmonton: Portrait of a City, by Dennis Person and Carin Routledge, published by Reidmore. The Foundation offers the book to members at a special price of $26.95.

Also available on the Foundation's bookshelf are copies of When the West Was Young, by J.D. Higinbotham, which was originally published in 1933 and tells of the settling of southern Alberta. This hardback book is available to members for only five dollars and is a project of the Historic Trails Society of Lethbridge.

As part of its ongoing public awareness programme the Foundation's magazine News and Views continued to appear regularly with freelance editor Barbara Kwasny at the helm. More than 2,500 copies are printed and distributed to members, heritage organizations, politicians and other interested persons. In 1981 the first large format Annual Report was produced to explain the preceeding year's financial and programme activities.

In March 1981, St. Paul School, St. Paul, was severely damaged by fire, and the Foundation contributed a $50,000 grant toward the rebuilding of the building's brick and stone facade. The school serves as the home for the Franco-Albertain Heritage Project - an organization which records the songs, dances, stories and costumes of Alberta's Francophone people.

ALBERTA LEGISLATURE

OFFICE OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL

AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Directors of The Alberta
Historical Resources Foundation

I have examined the balance sheet of The Alberta Historical Resources Foundation as at December 31, 1981 and the statements of revenue, expenditure and surplus, restricted funds transactions and changes in financial position for the year then ended. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

Inasmuch as revenue from donations could not be completely verified by audit procedures, my examination of this revenue was confined to those amounts recorded by the Foundation.

As described in Note 2, the Foundation records contributions received from the Western Canada Lottery Alberta division on a cash basis, as any adjustments that may be necessary to record contributions on an accrual basis are not known and cannot be determined at the year end of the Foundation.

In my opinion, except for the effect of any adjustments which might have been required had I been able to verify the completeness of revenue from donations and record contributions on an accrual basis, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Foundation as at December 31, 1981, and the results of its operations and the changes in its financial position for the year then ended in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles applied, after giving retroactive effect to the change in recording restricted funds as explained in Note 3 to the financial statements, on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

THE ALBERTA HISTORICAL RESOURCES FOUNDATION

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 1981

Note 1 Authority

The Alberta Historical Resources Foundation operates under the authority of The Alberta Historical Resources Act, Chapter 5, Statutes of Alberta 1973.

Note 2 Significant Accounting Policies and Reporting Practices

Depreciation:
Furniture and equipment is depreciated at the rate of 15% per annum on the diminishing balance.

Restricted Funds:
The Foundation receives certain funds which are designated by the donor for specific purposes. As these funds are expended for the purposes intended, they are shown in the statement of restricted funds transactions.

Contributions From the Western Canada Lottery Alberta Divison:
The Foundation is entitled to receive a share of the annual net profit of the Western Canada Lottery Alberta Divison. The Division's year end is March 31 and therefore any adjustments that may be necessary to record contributions on an accrual basis cannot be determined at the year end of the Foundation.

Administration Expenses:
The cost of accommodation for the Foundation is provided from the General Revenue Fund of the Province of Alberta and, accordingly, is not reflected in these financial statements.

Note 3 Change in Accounting Policy

During the year, the foundation changed its accounting policy regarding restricted funds and ceased to record these funds in the statement of revenue, expenditure and surplus. As a result of this change, which has been applied retroactively, surplus for the year has decreased by $1,944 (1980 NIL).

Note 4 Commitments

As at December 31, 1981 the Foundation had commitments totalling $199,635 (1980 $76,327) with respect to amounts not advanced on approved projects and grants.

Note 5 Comparative Figures

The 1980 figures have been restated where necessary to conform to the 1981 presentation.

Note 6 Approval of Financial Statements

These financial statements were approved by management on March 17, 1982.
